

Theatre Summer School

Sorbonne Nouvelle University
1 – 19 July 2019

For 3rd-year undergraduate & postgraduate students

2nd edition: PLACES AND SPACES

A Summer School in three steps:

1st to 5th July:

PARIS

Conferences at Sorbonne Nouvelle University, located in the heart of Paris

8th to 13th July:

AVIGNON

Week at the Festival d'Avignon, one of the most important contemporary performing arts events in the world, with shows and theoretical classes

15th to 19th July:

PARIS

Workshop at the Sorbonne Nouvelle, to link the conferences, shows and students' research

How can a space for acting be built in a specific location? What kind of relationship with the spectator is to be established there? What happens when the scenic space takes place in a location which is not dedicated to the theatrical performance (a street, a gym hall, a courtyard of honour...)? How can the perception of the show be modified accordingly? To what extent gesture, costume, light or music are also contributing to build the theatrical space? How do modern technologies alter the building of spaces and the spectator's perception? What is the meaning conveyed by the notions of "set", "scenography", "dramatic space", "scenic space", if they still convey some? And what about the way places, spaces and texts are articulated together? How may the text suggest a preexisting space for acting? How does the transition to the stage reinvent it?

These are some of the many questions that our Summer School aims to explore, by multiplying the perspectives and the theoretical approaches (scenographical, dramaturgical, historical, aesthetical, sociological...) and by bringing them together with analysis of shows seen during the Festival d'Avignon 2019.

During this Summer School you will:

- Develop your knowledge and research through thought-provoking discussion
- Discover shows and artists at the Festival of Avignon
- Multiply scientific, artistic and friendly encounters
- Make a presentation based on the Summer School's conferences, workshops and shows (15th - 19th July)

All sessions will be held in English and will be carried out by professors from the Sorbonne Nouvelle Drama Studies Department.
